The Union Pacific officials have decided that it will not lease the inside 100 feet of its right-of-way for the use of the Lincoln Highway. The company is, however, willing to lease such part of the outside 100 feet as it owns. Much of this outer 100 feet has been sold to farmers. This decision greatly complicates the matter of securing a right of way for the Lincoln Highway through Nebraska.

Dispute over Big Tract of Land

For more than a week the Union Pacific and John W. Baughman have been engaged in a lively controversy over the 21,000 acre tract of land along the north river north of town which the latter purchased several years ago. It appears that on the grounds of an alleged unfulfilled contract the company has been inclined to take possession of the tract by occupancy, and for a time had a representative camping near the bridge. Baughman recently erected a shanty and has been "at home to his friends" there with a small American flag floating in the ambient atmosphere. The McDaniels boys who last year had a lease on the range, put about 800 head of cattle on the range a few days ago, and it is understood that they have leased the range from the railroad company for another year. They have been notified by Baughman to vacate, and the time in which to do so was up yesterday or today. There are many legal frills to the case, and where it will all end remains to be seen. It seems that Baughman already has close to $50,000 tied up in the tract.—Sutherland Free Lance.
